U.S. Probation Officer Action:

We write the Court to advise that the offender was arrested by officers from the New York City Police Department on December 7, 2011, and charged with three counts of Criminal Possession of a Controlled Substance. According to the arresting officer, on December 7, 2011, he and his fellow officers from the Staten Island Narcotics Bureau were conducting routine surveillance in the offender's neighborhood around 7:30PM, when they observed the offender acting suspiciously. Based on this, they approached the offender, who was sitting in his vehicle, and ultimately discovered that he illegally possessed over 480 oxycontin pills. The offender had one bottle, which had a legal prescription in his name, of oxycontin containing 360 pills. The offender had another bottle which contained 120 pills and had no label on it. When questioned by officers as to why he had so many pills, the offender informed them he was taking them for his back pain. Following his arraignment, the offender was released on December 8, 2011, on a $2,500 cash bond. He is due back in Staten Island Criminal Court on January 23, 2012.

At this time, we respectfully recommend that no action be taken. The offender has been otherwise complaint since your Honor placed him on probation on September 21, 2011. Furthermore, we would like to monitor the progress of this case and then make an appropriate recommendation following its disposition. Please advise us of your decision below.
